Blind Wine Tasting Score Sheets

Six bottles in disguise. Who can name them?

scorecards | bottle tags | host key

Everything you need for a 6-bottle blind tasting

Print one scorecard per guest, and keep the Secret Bottle Key to yourself.

How to play

Five minutes to read, then pour

Your guests taste wines from bottles hidden in paper bags. For each pour they give some stars, jot a note and make three guesses: the grape, where it's from and what it cost. Then you pull the bags off, everyone scores their card, and the best palate in the room wins.

Stars

Give every bottle 1 to 5 stars. No points, but the stars choose the Bottle of the Night.

Grape

Guess the grape. Right = 2 points.

Place

Guess where it's from. Right = 2 points.

Price

Guess what it cost. The closest guess at the table = 3 points (ties all score).

Bonus

Spot the cheapest and the priciest bottle: 3 points each.

Your party in 5 steps

1. Buy 6 bottles with different grapes, places and prices. Line them up light to bold: bubbles and whites first, reds next, sweet last.
2. Take off the foil tops, bag each bottle and tie on its number tag. Write what's inside on the Secret Bottle Key and hide it, with the receipts. (Tags and key rows 7 and 8 are spares for a bigger party.)
3. Pour small tastes, about 2 oz (60 ml), in number order. Guests fill in their scorecards as they go and jot down which bottle got their best tasting note. No peeking, no talking prices!
4. The big reveal: pull the bags off one by one and read out the key. Before you say each price, everyone calls out their guess: the closest takes 3 points. Guests score their own cards.
5. Highest total wins! Tied? The closest guess at what all the bottles cost together wins. Add up the stars for each bottle: the most stars is the Bottle of the Night. Last, read out your best notes.

Want to play too? Ask a friend to bag the bottles and fill in the key while you're out of the room. Then you're just another guest!

Please taste responsibly. Small pours, plenty of water and food, and help guests get home safely. This game is for adults of legal drinking age.

Secret Bottle Key

Fill this in as you bag the bottles. Don't let anyone peek!

Tip: write the price you actually paid, including any sale. Hide the receipts too: a price sticker on a bag is the fastest way to lose a game!

Bottle tags

Cut out, punch the hole and tie one around each bottle neck
